MAXIMIZING YOUR LEADERSHIP POTENTIAL

SUCCEEDING AS A MANAGER REQUIRES A NEW SET OF SKILLS.

Frontline managers and first-level leaders must be able to deliver business results with and through other people, rather than relying on just their own individual contributions. Shifting focus from individual performance to team performance presents new challenges and requires new skills.

We’re here to help. Maximizing Your Leadership Potential is an in-depth skill-building training for frontline and new leaders to grow their first-level manager effectiveness. Participants practice mastering the 4 key roles every leader must play: player, manager, coach, and leader — and how to choose the right role in the moment. Through coaching and experiential practice in a dynamic, peer-based learning environment, first-line leaders learn the skills they need to succeed and thrive.
