Executive Coaching

10 hours
3 assessments

CCL’s research shows that many leadership challenges are harder than they look at first glance. Personal development is not reached when a job is done or a goal is achieved.

Executive coaching helps senior leaders across the organization to develop greater leadership abilities in the face of a series of leadership challenges that need to be addressed by a leader.

It helps leaders to create a deeper level of self-awareness, to understand their strengths and weaknesses, to become aware of derailment factors and to transform into a more rounded and successful leader.

In executive coaching the leader and the coach closely work together in a safe and confidential environment.

Typically a coaching assignment consists of 10 hours over a period of 2 to 4 months.
