Center for Creative Leadership Earns Fourth Straight Top 5 Ranking from Financial Times

22 MAY 2017 – SRI LANKA – For the fourth straight year, the Center for Creative Leadership (CCL®) ranks No. 4 overall in the Financial Times worldwide survey of executive education, which was released last week, making this the 16th consecutive year that CCL has been placed in the top 10.

The annual rankings rates institutions in 10 sub-categories, with CCL being recognized for excellence in the following categories:

- Aims Achieved
- Course Design
- Facilities
- Faculty
- Follow-Up
- Food & Accommodations
- Future Use
- Preparation
- Teaching Methods & Materials

CCL is the only institution – from more than 85 in the rankings – that focuses exclusively on leadership development. The rankings are based on direct feedback from organizational and individual clients who rated leading executive education providers, including Harvard, Wharton, IMD and Insead, for quality and impact.

“These rankings confirm once again that CCL consistently creates results for the individuals and organizations we are privileged to serve,” CCL President and CEO John R. Ryan said. “It is truly an honor to be recognized among so many superb institutions and to partner each day with clients that are committed to world-class leadership.”

“We are very glad that Sunshine Holdings was able to partner with CCL to drive Executive Learning and Development within the Group. Personally I have found the Learning Interactions to be mentally stimulating and the suggestions practical, thereby making positive behavioral change achievable,” said Vish Govindasamy, Group Managing Director from Sunshine Holdings PLC. “We wish them the very best as they establish themselves in Sri Lanka and look forward to our continuous, engaging partnership.”

“We are extremely pleased to be placed amongst the top providers in this highly competitive field, and CCL’s continued success reflects the results we deliver for the many individuals and organizations in Asia Pacific and around the world,” said Dr. Roland Smith, Senior Vice President and Managing Director, Asia-Pacific, CCL. “As we pursue our belief of lifelong learning amidst a volatile environment of change, we aim to continue bringing our research knowledge and innovative solutions to constantly shape leadership journeys across the world.”
