Research Partner Profiles

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

1. EMPLOYEES WANT MORE FROM WORK.

Owing to the disruption that the world has gone through, stakeholders have heightened expectations from corporations.

Employees are seeking incremental meaning from their work, higher flexibility, and a better "quality" of life.

Dissatisfaction around such asks is partially manifesting in "the Great Resignation," "Antiwork," or "Lying Flat" movements across the world.

3. ORGANIZATION CONTEXT DICTATES VIABILITY & VERSION OF HYBRID MODEL.

Different versions of hybrid work for different organizations.

The discretion that employees have around workplace depends on several variables.

Organization culture, type of work, leader level, leader age/generation, and national culture are some variables that dictate the viability of hybrid and flexibility that employees can have if organizations adopt it.

2. HYBRID OR WORK 3.0 HAS EMERGED AS THE PREFERRED MODEL.

After having embraced a fully remote model during the pandemic, most organizations are currently testing to see what combination of onsite and remote works best for them.

Key variables that organizations are trying to optimize for are flexibility for employees on the one hand, and productivity and efficiency on the other hand. Increasingly, there is very little correlation between work and workplace.

4. SUCCESS IN WORK 3.0 CENTERS ON PEOPLE AND CULTURE.

Technology has evolved exponentially in the past two years.

While it is often celebrated as the biggest champion of enabling hybrid working, WORK 3.0 research suggests that it is at best a "hygiene" factor.

The success of the hybrid model hinges on people/teams and organizational culture.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

5. LEADERS' SUCCESS DEPENDS ON THEIR MINDSETS & ATTRIBUTES.

Leaders must be dynamic and agile as they align their capabilities with WORK 3.0. Mindset shifts must precede skillset changes.

Most mindset and skillset shifts center on trust, communication, and growth.

Leaders in developing Asia must also align to the reality that teams can be productive even as they work from home.

7. TEAM SUCCESS IN WORK 3.0 HINGES ON 4 KEY ELEMENTS.

Elements of a team that must come together to enable organizations to deliver on business needs, especially in a hybrid work environment, are core agreements about how people work together, collective mindset or team culture, cohesion or intra-team relationships, and connections across teams.

Leaders must manage tensions in these 4 areas for teams to perform and thrive in WORK 3.0.

6. SOME LEADERS DO MUCH BETTER THAN OTHERS.

Mindset maturity and hybrid-world-friendly attributes dictate leader comfort and success in the new world.

On the one end of the spectrum are leaders who not only thrive in a hybrid world but also champion navigating the polarity between flexibility and collaboration. On the other end of the spectrum, however, are leaders who are struggling to find their feet.

8. LEADERS MUST ALSO PLAY 5 ROLES TO MAKE WORK 3.0 A SUCCESS.

Leaders must lean on their WORK 3.0 mindsets and attributes to manage several complementary or competing ideas in navigating tensions at work.

In doing so, leaders must embrace 5 roles – Anchored Imagineer, Cat Herder, Wellness Hunter, Risk-Averse Gambler, and Tech-Savvy Humanist. Ability to play these five roles dictates if inherent WORK 3.0 tensions will act as “springs” or “mines.”

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

WORK 3.0: Reimagining Leadership in a Hybrid World study, based on inputs from 2,200 leaders across 13 countries, highlights the challenges organizations and leaders are facing in navigating business, people, and process polarities as they embrace "WORK 3.0," the new world of hybrid work.

The research was led by the Center for Creative Leadership (CCL) in partnership with a pan-Asia Pacific research consortium comprising 15 organizations in the region: The American Chamber of Commerce in Singapore, AsiaHRM (Hong Kong), CARROT Global (South Korea), Institute of Corporate Directors Malaysia, Institute of Corporate Directors (Philippines), Intercontinental Institute of HR Management (Sri Lanka), Japan Association for CHROs, Kestria, LinkedIn, Prasetya Mulya Executive Learning Institute (Indonesia), Sasin School of Management (Thailand), Singapore Human Resources Institute, The Society for Human Resource Management (APAC), Talentnet (Vietnam), and XED Space (Australia and New Zealand).

Key questions the research study attempts to address are:

- What does the evolution of workplace look like in Asia Pacific?

- What are the implications of the various work models organizations are embracing?
- How can leaders prepare for the hybrid world?
- What are the "right" mindsets and attributes leaders must display to be successful?

The CCL research team curated and tested a survey instrument to seek inputs from leaders across Asia Pacific to the above questions. The survey was rolled out by the research consortium partners in 13 countries over a 10-week period. The research team collected 2,170 valid responses to the survey (demographics on the right).

The research consortium also interviewed 27 leaders across 10 countries to get qualitative inputs on how organizations are embracing new work models, and the challenges leaders are facing in doing so. The interviewee leaders belonged to a mix of industries including financial services, fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG), technology, retail, infrastructure, and professional services companies.

Subsequently the CCL research team analyzed the qualitative and quantitative data, and curated the key findings report.

- Leader Response
- Leader Mindsets & Attributes
- WORK 3.0 Impact

WORK 3.0 CONTEXT

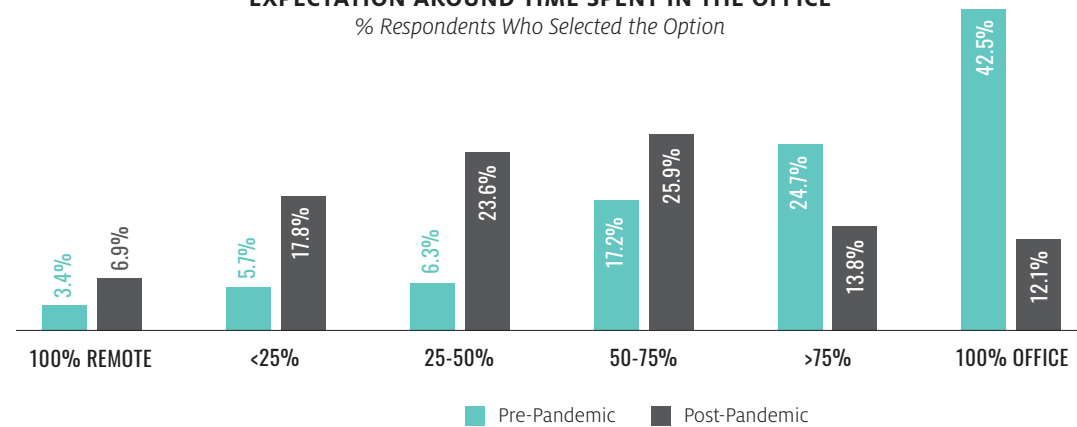

THAILAND SAMPLE

- The CCL research team collected 174 valid survey responses.
- 34% of responses were from public companies, another 37% from private companies, and balance 29% were from state-owned enterprises.
- Entry- and mid-level managers accounted for almost 65% of the survey responses, while 19% of responses were from senior-level leaders (Directors and above). C-suite level leaders and board directors accounted for 16% of the responses.
- 30% of the respondents led a team of more than 50 full-time employees (FTEs). Another 19% led teams between 11 and 50 FTEs in size. The balance 51% respondents led teams of up to 10 FTEs.
- Almost 28% respondents had less than 10 years of professional work experience, 32% had between 11 and 20 years, and balance 40% had more than 20 years of work experience.
- While the sample had representation from diverse industries, it was dominated by banks, education, government, real estate, insurance and software and services companies.
- 52% of the respondents held business and related roles.
- 40% of the respondents were Gen Y, while another 43 percent belonged to Gen X. The balance respondents were Gen Z and “baby boomers.”
- Almost 58% of respondents were males.

EXPECTATION AROUND TIME SPENT IN THE OFFICE

% Respondents Who Selected the Option

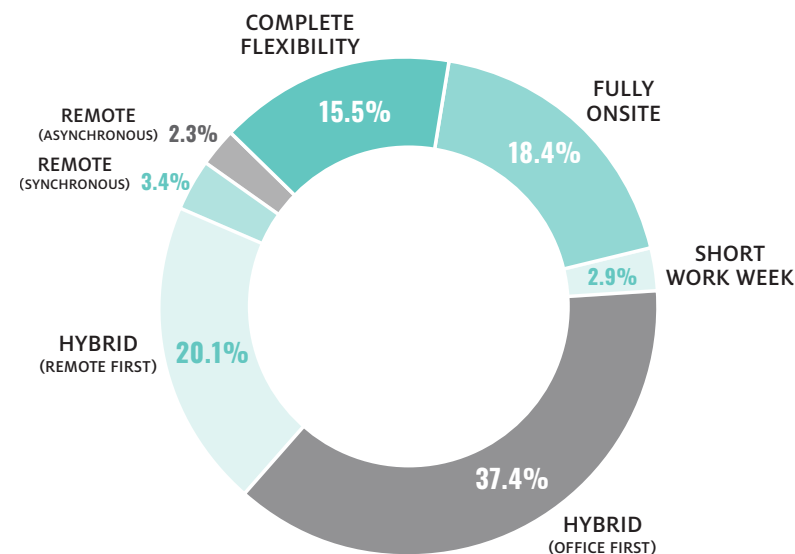

N=174

Question: What are the pre-Covid and post-Covid expectations (in your organization) around time spent by the workforce at the company office/onsite?

FLEXIBLE WORK OPTIONS

% Respondents Who Selected the Option

N=174

Question: In the long term (next 3-5 years), what is the preferred or emerging mode of working in your organization?

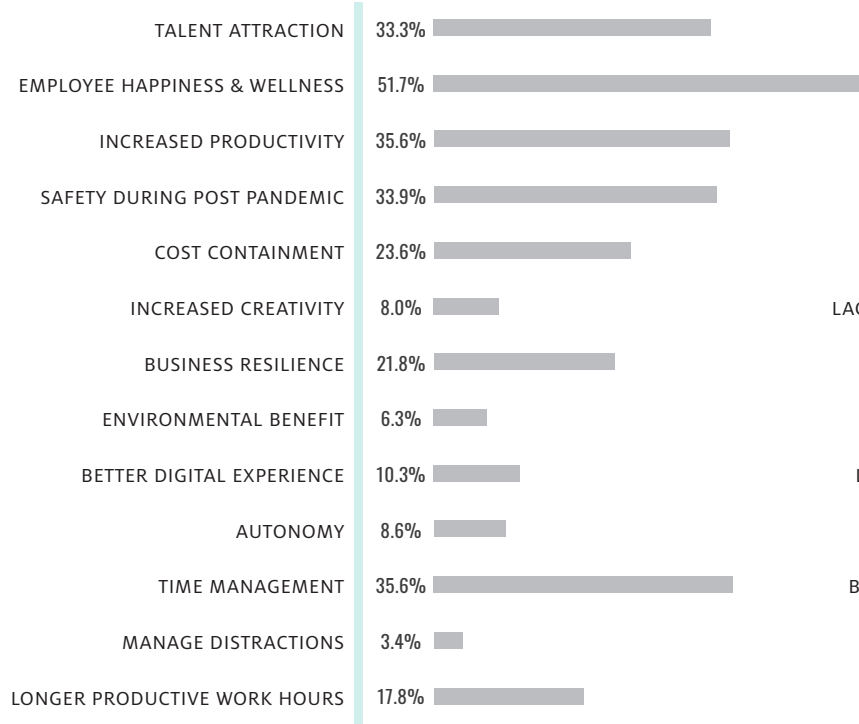

Much like the rest of Asia Pacific, hybrid will emerge as the most-preferred work option in Thailand, with 57.5% of survey respondents selecting it as a preferred or emerging mode of work.

WORK 3.0 CONTEXT

Thailand

KEY BENEFITS OF EMBRACING THE HYBRID MODEL

% Respondents Who Rated the Factor as One of Top 3

N=174

Question: What do you believe the biggest benefits will be to your organization as it embraces a hybrid work model?

KEY BARRIERS TO ADOPTING THE HYBRID MODEL

% Respondents Who Selected the Option

N=174

Question: What do you believe the biggest barriers are to adopting a sustainable hybrid working model in your organization?

Much like the rest of Asia Pacific, "employee happiness" and "time management" are the key benefits to embracing hybrid in Thailand. While organizations across Asia Pacific mainly worry about barriers such as "lack of human connection" and "lack of collaboration," "lack of skills related to hybrid working" emerges as an additional area of concern for organizations in Thailand."

SUCCESS FACTORS IN THE HYBRID WORK ENVIRONMENT

% Respondents Who Ranked the Factor as "Most Important"

N=174

Question: Rank the following factors that influence leader success in the hybrid working environment in terms of their importance.

WORK 3.0 PREPAREDNESS

Thailand

ORGANIZATION PREPAREDNESS

% Respondents Who Selected the Option

N=174

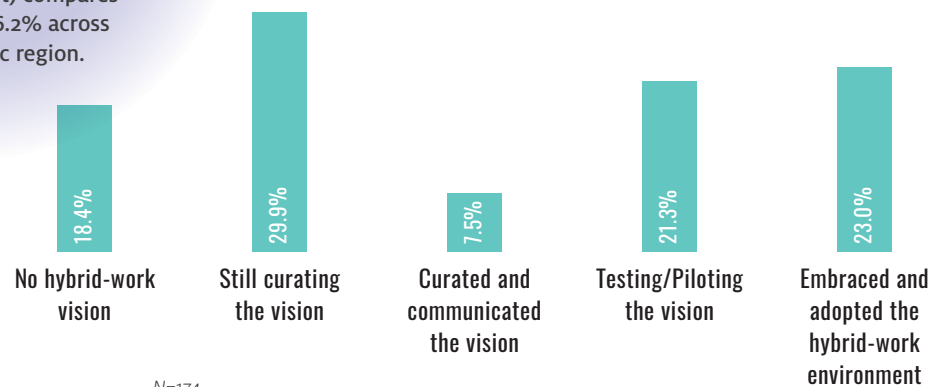

Question: How prepared do you believe your organization is to support long-term hybrid work environment?

More organizations in Thailand have embraced and adopted hybrid as compared to the rest of the region. Thailand average of 23% (companies that have embraced and adopted hybrid-work environment) compares favorably with 16.2% across the Asia Pacific region.

LONG-TERM HYBRID VISION

% Organizations at Various Stages

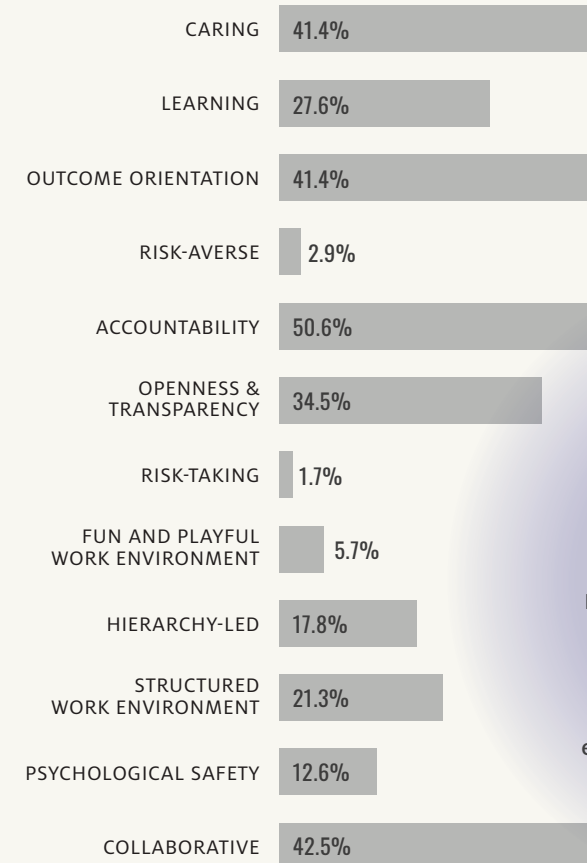

N=174

Question: Where is your organization on the journey towards vision and associated processes/policies with respect to hybrid work?

MUST-HAVE ELEMENTS OF ORGANIZATION CULTURE

% Respondents Who Selected the Culture Element as One of Top 3

While "openness/transparentcy" emerged as the most important element of organization culture (to support hybrid working) in Asia Pacific (followed by "accountability" and "collaboration"), leaders in Thailand selected "accountability" as most critical. "Collaboration" and "caring/outcome orientation" emerged as the other key must-have elements of organization culture.

N=174

Question: What are the key elements of organization CULTURE for creating the "right" environment for leaders to thrive in a hybrid team?

LEADER RESPONSE TO WORK 3.0

Thailand

LEADER RESPONSE TO THE HYBRID WORLD

% Respondents Who Selected the Option

N=174

Question: How would you describe your response to the current hybrid work environment?

At 61.5%, more leaders are thriving in the hybrid work environment in Thailand as compared to the Asia Pacific average of 52.4%.

EMPLOYEE PREFERENCE & LEADER SUPPORT

% Respondents Who Selected the Option

N=174

Questions: Do you agree with the statement that the "majority of leaders are fine with their teams working in hybrid mode?" Do you agree with the statement that "majority of employees want to work from home?"

WHAT ACTIVITIES ARE LEADERS ENGAGING IN?

% Respondents Engaging More/Less/Same-Level in Activities

Less-of Same More-of

N=174

Question: What are you doing 'less-of', 'same-as-before' or 'more-of' in a hybrid work environment?

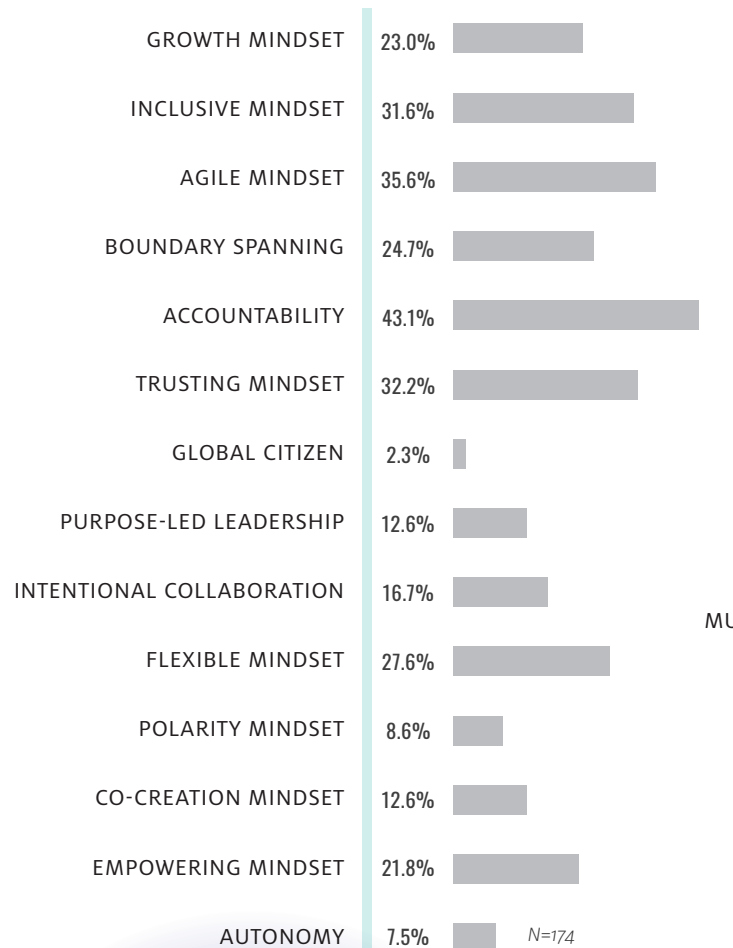

Like the rest of Asia Pacific, while "work alone" and "informal learning" are two activities leaders in Thailand are most engaging in, "internal networking" and "business travel" activities have been most severely hit.

WORK 3.0 MINDSETS & ATTRIBUTES

Thailand

MINDSETS OF A ROCKSTAR HYBRID LEADER

% Respondents Who Selected the Option as One of Their Top 3

Question: What are the elements of a must-have MINDSET to succeed in a hybrid work environment?

While for Asia Pacific, "growth mindset" emerges as the most important mindset to succeed in the hybrid world (followed by "trusting mindset" and "accountability"), leaders in Thailand selected "accountability," "agile mindset" and "trusting mindset" as their top-three.

ATTRIBUTES OF A ROCKSTAR HYBRID LEADER

% Respondents Who Selected the Option as One of Their Top 3

N=174

Question: What SKILLS must leaders develop/polish to thrive in a hybrid work environment?

Just like the rest of Asia Pacific, "communication," "building trust" and "expectation setting" emerge as the most valued hybrid leadership skills in Thailand.

At 54.6%, there are more "work champions" in Thailand as compared to the Asia Pacific average of 41.6%.

FLAVORS OF WORK 3.0 LEADERS

% Respondents Who Rated Their Peers on Skill and Mindset Readiness

WORK 3.0 HOPEFULS

Leaders who believe in the power of hybrid, but are working on their skills to align with the new ways of work.

WORK 3.0 CHAMPIONS

Leaders who have embraced the hybrid work model and champion it internally.

WORK 3.0 LAGGARDS

Leaders with a fixed mindset who do not "buy-in" to the concept of hybrid work.

WORK 3.0 SKEPTICS

Leaders who have skills such as communication, and learning agility, but are not fully convinced of the efficacy of the hybrid work model.

SKILL Readiness

N=174

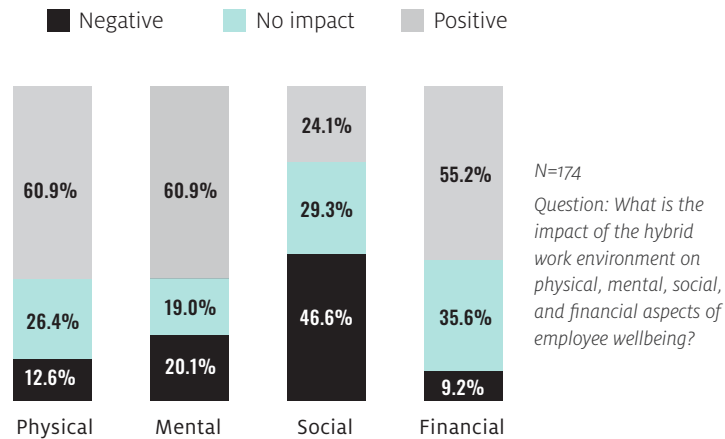

Question: My colleagues and peers have the 'right' set of skills and mindset towards hybrid work environment?

WORK 3.0 IMPACT

Thailand

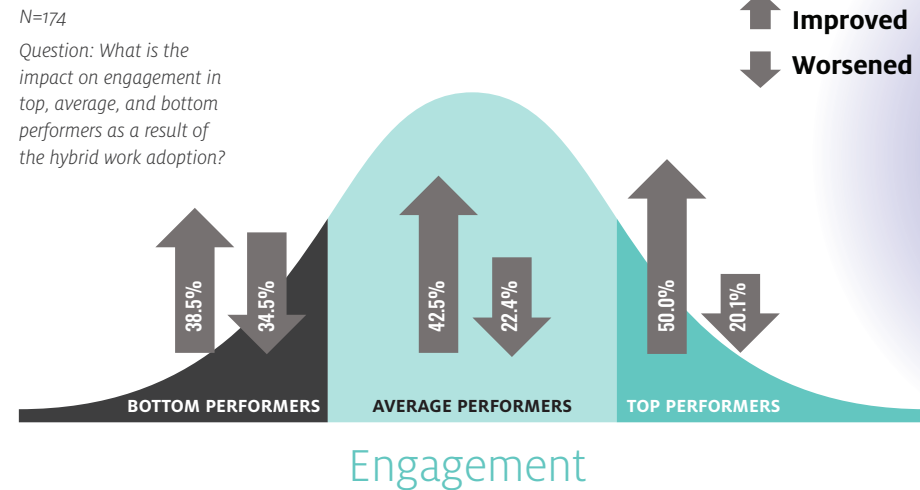

IMPACT OF HYBRID ENVIRONMENT ON LEADER WELLBEING

% Respondents Who Selected Nature of Impact

IMPACT OF HYBRID MODEL ADOPTION ON EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT

% Respondents Who Selected the Option

While aggregate Asia Pacific data suggests that hybrid adoption may hurt employee engagement of below-average or "bottom performers," the trend does now seem to be true in Thailand. Data suggests that hybrid adoption in Thailand will have a net-positive impact even on the engagement of below-average performers.

BIASES AT PLAY IN THE HYBRID WORLD

% Respondents Who Selected the Option as One of Their Top 3

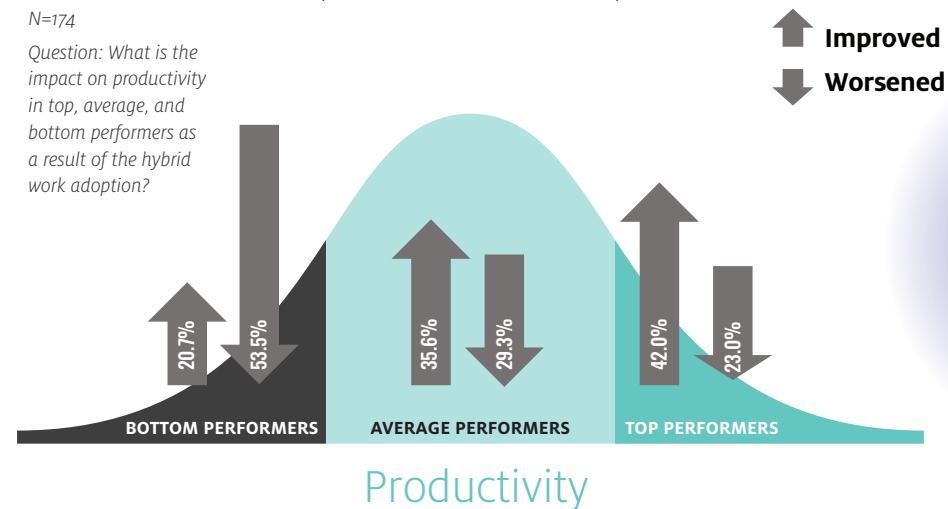

N=174

Question: What cognitive biases, according to you, are more prevalent in a hybrid work environment?

IMPACT OF HYBRID MODEL ADOPTION ON EMPLOYEE PRODUCTIVITY

% Respondents Who Selected the Option

Just like the rest of Asia Pacific, hybrid model may hurt the productivity of below-average or "bottom performers."

WORK 3.0 IMPACT

Thailand

DIRECTION, ALIGNMENT, COMMITMENT SETTING IN A HYBRID WORK ENVIRONMENT

% Respondents Who Selected the Option

■ Easier to Accomplish ■ Same as Before ■ Harder to Accomplish

IMPACT OF HYBRID MODEL ON DIVERSITY, EQUITY & INCLUSION

% Respondents Who Selected the Option

■ Improved ■ Worsened

Just like the rest of Asia Pacific region, hybrid adoption has a net-positive impact on diversity, equity and inclusion in Thailand.

10 TAKEAWAYS

- Thailand data suggests that, quite like the rest of Asia Pacific, expectation from employees to work 100% from the office/onsite has reduced quite significantly, from 42.5% pre-Covid to 12.1% in the post-Covid period.
- The hybrid work model is likely to emerge as the most favored option in the near future, with 57.5% respondents opting for it. Only 18.4% respondents predict that staff will be back fully onsite in the next 3-5 years.
- Respondents note that while employee wellness (51.7%), increased productivity and better time management are the key benefits of embracing WORK 3.0/hybrid mode, 58% also highlight that “lack of belonging or human connection” could be the biggest derailer organizations need to guard against.
- Leaders note that organizational culture and people factors outweigh technology & tools, processes, and workplace design in driving a successful WORK 3.0 environment. More than 61% respondents rate organization culture and people as the “most important” success drivers.
- Individual leaders feel much more prepared for WORK 3.0 as compared to their organizations. While 61.5% leaders feel they are “thriving” in the hybrid work environment, only about 30% claim that their organizations are “fully prepared.” Only 23% of the surveyed respondents shared that their organizations have completely embraced and adopted the hybrid work environment.
- As organizations in Thailand embrace WORK 3.0, accountability, collaboration, caring attitude, outcome orientation, and openness & transparency, emerge as the top 5 must-have organization culture elements.
- WORK 3.0-ready leaders must embrace mindsets of accountability, agility and trust. In addition, they must demonstrate attributes of communicating effectively, building trust, and setting clear expectations from their teams. 54.6% respondents in Thailand claim that their colleagues and peers already have the “right” combination of WORK 3.0-ready mindsets and attributes.
- WORK 3.0 impacts employee engagement and productivity. While it lifts engagement in all employees (top, average, bottom performers), it positively impacts productivity only in top performers (and somewhat in average performers). WORK 3.0 environment hurts productivity of bottom performers in an organization.
- WORK 3.0 environment has a mainly positive influence on employees’ physical, mental, and financial wellness. It however has a negative influence on social wellbeing, with 46.6% respondents underlining the risk.
- Leaders in Thailand claim that while a hybrid work environment may encourage proximity, confirmation, and similarity bias, it generally helps the diversity-equity-inclusion agenda.

HOW CCL CAN HELP?

LEADING HYBRID TEAMS PROGRAM

- ✓ Leading in a hybrid workplace requires putting your people first.
- ✓ Center for Creative Leadership (CCL) approach focuses on developing the critical leadership skills needed to help you create a thriving hybrid workplace.

WHY LEADERS NEED HELP?

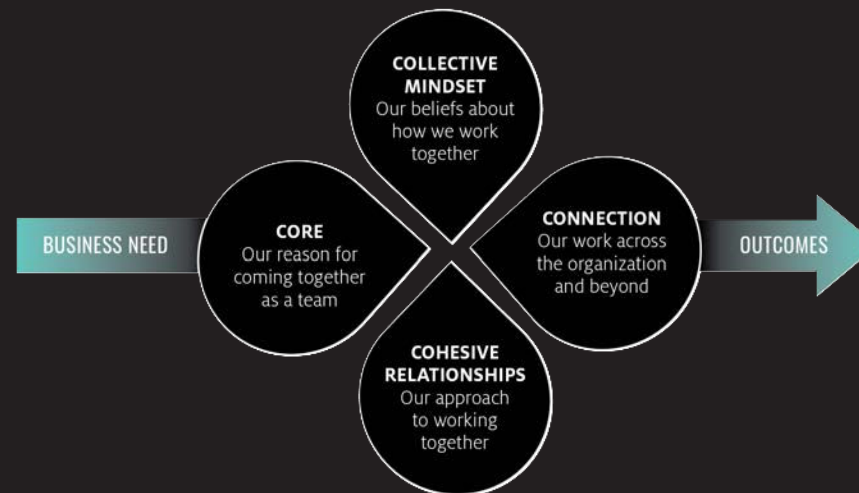

Leading a team can be challenging in any circumstance. Leading in the new, more complex, and dynamic hybrid workplace environment raises the difficulty level as well as the stress.

A major shift is underway right now, fundamentally altering when, where, and how work occurs. As organizations adjust to today's new hybrid workplace, collaboration among team members who aren't co-located is emerging as the primary way of getting things done.

Effective hybrid workplace leadership requires building cohesion among colleagues working together from disparate locations, fending off burnout, being intentional about inclusion, and strengthening shared culture.

CCL APPROACH

- ✓ Our approach to hybrid workplace leadership puts people first and focuses on building self-awareness, emotional intelligence, conversational skills, and psychological safety.
- ✓ We also help develop team and group leadership skills to create strong work alliances, powerful cross-team networks, and intentional organizational cultures where individuals and teams can thrive — regardless of where their work happens.
- ✓ We help equip team leaders for the challenges of leading in the hybrid workplace with research-based, hands-on solutions that can be used directly with their work teams.
- ✓ Our human-centered development solutions — available both virtually and in-person — can help you strengthen hybrid leadership at your organization, bolster conversations and connections, strengthen organizational culture, and improve business outcomes.
